Spanish Turmoil May Evolve Into a Republic

CONSTITUTIONAL REGENERATION OF COUNTRY NEARS

GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER GEN. BERENGUER RESIGNS FROM OFFICE TODAY

KING SIGNS DECREE SUSPENDING PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS SCHEDULED SOON

Madrid, Feb. 14.—King Alfonso today signed Count Romanones, the liberal leader, to succeed General Damaso Berenguer as premier. Romanones declined.

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, Feb. 14.—After years of dictatorship, martial law and rebellion, Spain appeared today to be moving toward a republican form of government with such rapidity that the political victors themselves were uncertain what the next move in the constitutional regeneration of the country would be.

Within the space of a few hours the government of Premier Gen. Berenguer resigned and the king received a decree suspending the parliamentary elections scheduled for next month. The next logical development appeared to be the convocation of a constitutional assembly to draft a constitution replacing that of 1876, under which the country is still governed.

The king signed the decree suspending the scheduled March elections. King Alfonso began consultations immediately after the cabinet's resignation with leaders of the liberal party, who forced Berenguer's resignation, and also with the Duke of Maurea regarding the formation of a new government. The Duke of Maurea expressed the opinion that a coalition government, or a so-called national concentration, would be formed.

Briefly summarized, the events leading to the situation occurred as follows:

Count Romanones, liberal leader and former premier, informed Berenguer that the liberals would not collaborate with the parliament which the government expected to elect in March. The count demanded a constitutional convention. The elections already had been boycotted by republicans and socialists.

Berenguer said that the liberal statement did much to clarify the situation, and called an extraordinary session of the cabinet this morning. King Alfonso conferred with the premier before the cabinet met in Berenguer's sickroom, where he has been confined for some time.

The cabinet submitted its resignation to the king, who accepted it. The cabinet also submitted a decree to the king suspending the scheduled general elections.

Madrid, Feb. 14.—Count Romanones telephoned to Cartagena today and asked Admiral Aznar, captain general of the navy, to come to Madrid. It was believed possible that the admiral would be asked to form a new government.

Madrid, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—King Alfonso XIII accepted the resignation of the cabinet of Premier Gen. Damaso Berenguer today.

The resignation of the cabinet followed the decision of the liberal party not to collaborate in the work of the parliament which Berenguer had planned to elect in March. Count Romanones, liberal leader, said that his party would keep its promise to participate in the elections, but that the liberals would withdraw from parliament unless a constitutional convention was called.

Socialists and republicans had announced their decision to boycott the elections. Count Romanones, it was understood, informed King Alfonso that it was impossible to disregard this attitude on the part of important political elements.

It was expected that a concentration government would be formed to convoke a constitutional convention. Opponents of the government's election plans held that the constitution lapsed after parliament was dissolved in 1923 and the king failed to call elections within the stipulated limit of three months.

The Tribune won the suit originally in the Cook county courts but the supreme court last fall reversed the judgment.

POSTOFFICE FEUD NOW BECOMES 4-CORNERED AFFAIR

FORMERLY INVOLVED POSTMASTER GENERAL, REPUBLICAN MEMBERS BOTH HOUSES

JOSEPH R. NUTT, TREASURER OF REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE, DRAWN INTO IT

Washington, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The feud over the post office leasing investigation, which hitherto had involved Postmaster General Brown and republican members of both houses of congress, became a four-cornered affair today with the entry of Joseph R. Nutt into the controversy.

Nutt, treasurer of the republican national committee, issued a formal statement describing Chairman Blaine of the senate postal investigating committee as "a loose-tongued senator making false statement."

Nutt backed Brown's denial that owners of buildings leased by the post office department had given large sums to the Coolidge and Hoover campaign funds. Blaine had intimated $1,250,000 had been gained from that source.

He added that during his tenure of office the only contribution from postal lessors was made by J. A. Lowe of St. Louis and amounted to $200. It was given over to the Missouri republican state committee, he said.

Rep. Maas, republican, Minnesota, issued a statement last night in which he charged Brown's attack on Blaine and his refusal to give the information asked was "an attempt to block the investigation and throw up a smoke screen."

He charged that Brown recently opposed appropriations necessary to carry out his program to abolish leasing practices.

"If there is any attempt to deceive the American people," Maas said, "the post office department can do nothing more than to help expose it by making available information in its files."

MIRAGE OF SUDDEN FORTUNE LURES MEN

REPORTED REDISCOVERY OF "LOST LEMAN MINE" SOUTH OF CALGARY, ALTA.

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—A mirage of sudden fortune from the reported rediscovery of the "Lost Leman Mine" lured 500 men today along the uneven and rugged slopes of Livingstone River valley, 100 miles south of here.

Although the assays of the first quartz showed only traces of gold and no platinum, the rush to stake out claims in the mountainous country close to the British Columbia border was under way.

Several hundred unemployed, without more than loose change in their pockets and without any mining supplies, hurried along in the path of the more prosperous miners who were outfitted with proper equipment.

A patrol of mounted police was enroute to Livingston today from Edmonton to protect the scores of men who would be helpless without food or shelter if the weather turned into a blizzard suddenly. So far seasonable weather had favored those seeking to stake claims.

The discoverer of the "Lost Leman Mine" was killed enroute back to prospect the land by hostile Indians. His story of the fabulous wealth of the country was known but he kept secret its exact location.

Veto Probable Toward Compromise Bill to Increase Loan Limit on Vet Certificates

STUDIED SILENCE IS MAINTAINED AT WHITE HOUSE

BILL BELIEVED TO BE CERTAIN OF PASSAGE IN THE HOUSE

WILL COME UP UNDER SUSPENSION OF THE RULES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 14.—A canvass by republican leaders revealed today the world war veterans loan bill is virtually certain of passage in the house Monday when it comes up for a vote under suspension of rules, despite administration opposition expressed by Secretary of Treasury Mellon.

Only a third of the house is needed to defeat it under this procedure which requires two-thirds for passage, but the canvass today failed to show sufficient opposition votes.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, told the senate today he understood administration leaders in the house were planning to hold up the veterans' loan bill until all appropriation measures were passed.

Such a procedure would remove all threat of an extra session and, if a bonus bill were passed after February 23, President Hoover could kill it with a pocket veto.

Couzens expressed hope the senate would pass the veterans' compensation bill before all appropriation bills are out of the way.

Washington, Feb. 14.—A studied silence carrying the implication of a veto is being maintained at the White House toward the compromise bill to increase the loan limit on world war veterans' adjusted service certificates to 50 per cent of their face value.

House leaders, meanwhile, prepared to pass the measure Monday under suspension of rules. A majority also is reported to favor the bill in the senate, and early action there is anticipated.

While President Hoover has made no public statements concerning any of the various veterans' relief proposals, his associates in the administration—particularly Secretary of Treasury Mellon—have indicated he considers most of the plans dangerous.

The financial condition of the government involved in the proposals has been the subject of frequent conferences between Mr. Hoover, Mellon, Undersecretary of Treasury Mills and Veterans' Affairs Administrator Hines.

The latest of these conferences was followed last night by a letter from Mellon to Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee which was construed as a further indication to a veto. In the letter, Mellon expressed disapproval of the compromise loan bill and urged its reconsideration "upon a basis which will not damage our whole financial position."

"The treasury, even without this burden, already is in a difficult position," the secretary informed Hawley. His letter was understood to have been prepared at the White House, presumably with administration approval.

"I was skeptical," Mrs. Guinotte told the court, "so my father went to Greenwood to ask a few questions."

STEARNS COUNTY SHERIFF, TREASURER ARE CRITICIZED

VOICED IN REPORT OF ARTHUR JOHNSON, CHIEF STATE PUBLIC EXAMINER

TREASURER IS CHARGED WITH COLLECTING $25 FOR DUPLICATE TAX LISTS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Criticism of Sheriff E. E. Schoener and Treasurer L. J. Kost of Stearns County for certain acts in conduct of their offices was voiced today in a report of Arthur Johnson, chief state public examiner.

He said the sheriff's charge of 20 cents a mile for use of his private automobile was "unreasonable in comparison with the amount paid other sheriffs in the state."

Kost was criticized for collecting $25 for duplicate tax lists compiled by county employes and supposedly pocketing the money for himself; and for $41,500 overdeposits of county funds in state banks.

president is inclined to the side of Mellon and the treasury department rather than congress. It is pointed out by those close to him that he expects the strain upon the treasury to be much greater than house and senate leaders have figured.

Mellon's opposition to the loan bill aroused considerable interest today at the capitol, but did not upset plans to bring the measure before the house Monday and pass it at that time.

Mellon's warning of a deficit brought from Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee a prediction congress would have to increase taxes at the next session to take care of extraordinary expenses.

Republican Floor Leader Tilson said the secretary's statement had aroused doubt about financing the legislation.

Both these leaders who have declined to follow Speaker Longworth in endorsing the measure, said, however, they still were of an open mind on the bill, and had not decided finally how they would vote.

Democratic Floor Leader Garner said Mellon was trying "to defeat just legislation with some more unreliable estimate" of the treasury's condition.

SENATE APPROVES THE $20,000,000 DROUGHT RELIEF

TALKED OUT, SENATE AT LAST COMES TO A VOTE THIS AFTERNOON

VOTE STOOD FOR ADOPTION OF BILL, 67; AGAINST ADOPTION, 15

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The senate today approved the $20,000,000 drought relief compromise.

The vote on adoption of the report was: For adoption, 67; against adoption, 15.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Bacon and beans or some substitute for such staples to a maximum value of $20,000,000 are to be voted drought-stricken farm families today by a talked-out senate.

An hour's taste of a tight session obtained unanimous agreement last night to vote on the relief measure by 2 P. M. today. The fight is almost over. Most opponents of the compromise relief program concede their inability to defeat the appropriation.

The administration views the appropriation as primarily designed to rehabilitate credit in the drought areas. But under an interpretation by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, borrowers may use federal loans to purchase food.

The senate and the White House have battled almost three months over this issue. On December 2 Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee introduced in the senate a $60,000,000 relief measure which would have permitted food loans. He said it represented the recommendations of the agriculture department.

President Hoover challenged the food loan policy. The senate stood by the McNary bill and passed it, but the house reduced the appropriation to $45,000,000, limited loans to the purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, gasoline and oil, and precipitated the relief dispute which has continued until today.

During that time, the senate acted finally on only one of the 11 routine appropriation bills, although it quickly passed the emergency appropriation to provide work for the jobless.

The senate was to vote today to provide $20,000,000 for the purpose it sought to serve with $15,000,000 in December. It is voting after prolonged sparring between Mr. Hoover, Secretary Hyde and senate leaders in which Hyde finally was maneuvered into making a written statement that loans from the $20,000,000 could be used to purchase food.

Minority Leader Robinson's acceptance of the $20,000,000 compromise in place of the $50,000,000 relief program originally sponsored in a democratic ultimatum, has shaken the Arkansan's hold on his party in the senate. He still is the leader and is expected to remain so. But in the past few days he has been assailed on the floor by his followers in a manner few surviving leaders have experienced.

3RD MAIL ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD BY ST. PAUL POLICE

2 MEN CAPTURED IN RUNNING GUN FIGHT FRIDAY IMPLICATED ANOTHER

TRIO TO BE ARRAIGNED MONDAY ON CHARGES OF ROBBERY, MAIL

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—A third mail robbery suspect was being held by postal authorities today after two men captured in a running gun fight Friday implicated him in a confession.

The three were to be arraigned Monday on charges of robbing the mails. The third man is Ray Peake, St. Paul, who according to the stories of Clement Bean, 22, and Robert Parker, 27, took part in a series of gasoline station and store robberies with them during the last few months, police said.

The confession of Bean, postal inspectors said, implicated the men in auto thefts and holdups in Pine Island, Racine, Owatonna, and Oxboro, Minn., including the stealing of a mail pouch at Racine.

Today they were to be questioned in connection with the mail pouch thefts at Morris where 21 pouches were taken and the St. Paul postal robbery on February 2 when $35,000 loot was stolen.

Parker and Bean were captured after an all night chase through several southern Minnesota counties. Police traced them to Owatonna after they had kidnapped Policeman Ed Hagen of Cannon Falls when he stopped them. Rochester police had forced them into an easily traceable taxicab when they shot up their first car.

MAJ.-GEN. EDWARDS CALLED TO REWARD

BECAME A HERO OF TWO WARS DURING 49 YEARS' MILITARY SERVICE

By HENRY MINOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, Feb. 14.—Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, retired, who became a hero of two wars during 49 years of military service, died at 7:06 A. M. today.

The war-time commander of the 26th (Yankee) Division, known to his doughboys as "Daddy," was 71 years old.

Death followed closely a second operation performed yesterday to relieve an intestinal disorder against which the celebrated soldier had waged a gritty, month-long fight at Phillips Hospital of Massachusetts general hospital.

Because of his advanced age, it was feared either might seriously affect his heart. So he underwent the operation with only a local anesthetic. Afterward he smoked a cigarette.

For a time the elderly patient was able to take small amounts of nourishment. When, several days ago, it became impossible for him to retain food in any form except for an occasional egg-nog, his strength waned rapidly. Three times calls went forth for volunteers to submit to blood transfusions. Of hundreds of officers, those of three of the general's former doughboys were accepted.

Until yesterday a lingering hope for his recovery was held. After the second operation, however, he failed to rally, lapsing into a coma from which he never fully emerged.

At midnight he was partially conscious for a brief interval.

Sir Evans, Former English Secretary of War, Dies

London, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Sir Laming Worthington Evans, 62, secretary of war in the last conservative government, died suddenly at his home in Southwest London last night.

Death was due to heart disease. He had suffered a slight attack of asthma recently and had been confined to his bed since he returned home from the house of commons Wednesday, but a doctor visited him last night and was not alarmed at his condition.

SWEEP HILLS BACK OF TOWN OF WELTON

KNOWN DEAD IN CAR WHICH WAS SWEEPED FROM ROAD BY WATERS

4 MISSING WERE LIVING IN AUTOMOBILE CAMP GROUNDS OF THE TOWN

Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Two persons were drowned and at least six others were missing as a result of cloudbursts which swept the hills back of Welton, Ariz., late last night, the Yuma county sheriff's office was informed early today.

The known dead, as yet unidentified, were members of a party of four whose automobile was swept from the road by the onrushing waters. Bodies of the other two had not been recovered at daybreak.

Four other persons who were believed missing were living in automobile camp grounds at Welton which were swept away by the torrents.

The water poured out of the hills for a distance of one-half mile with a maximum width of 300 feet and swept directly through the town before losing force.

A mile and a half of the Southern Pacific tracks were reported washed out at one point.

Water flowed down the streets four feet deep, sweeping away several tourist cabins and small houses.

Seventy-five automobiles, including a Greyhound stage and its passengers, were reported marooned two miles east of town.

The avalanche of water, five feet high and 300 feet wide, rushed down Coyote Wash, overturning an automobile containing five persons.

Two bridges, one in town and one nine miles east of Tachia, were torn away. At Tachia trains were stalled on each side of town.

Communication lines here were disrupted but shortly before midnight service was resumed temporarily with Yuma and then went out again.

Heavy rains throughout the state the last two days stored a vast amount of water in the hills which swept down the canyons when barriers gave way.

CUSTOMS BORDER PATROLMAN ADMITS TAKING BRIBES

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Perry Gibson, 35, former customs border patrolman here and more recently a member of the Minneapolis police department, was sentenced to 20 months in Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday afternoon after he had pleaded guilty to taking bribes.

Gibson, who is the thirteenth member of the local customs force to be sent to Leavenworth on bribery charges, was sentenced by Federal Judge Edward J. Moineau on Friday the 13th.

JOHN GILBERT AND WIFE, INA CLAIRE, ARE TO SEPARATE

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—John Gilbert and his wife, Ina Claire, both film stars, have agreed to separate, according to their announcement, but both refused today to state whether they contemplated divorce.

Miss Claire returned to California last night after completing a personal appearance in the east. She arrived at Pasadena and appeared vexed when Gilbert did not meet her.

The announcement which they issued later from their Beverly Hills home was a surprise to their friends, although there had been rumors for months concerning them.

THIS WEEK IN THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE

By United Press
St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Adjournment for Lincoln's birthday and over Saturday prevented Minnesota's legislators this week from transacting more than routine business.

Charges of "unsatisfactory conduct" were made against F. A. Duxbury, state industrial commissioner, and against the Minnesota department of education, but no action was taken.

The day-by-day activities: Monday—House was urged to adopt an unified system of sewage disposal for the Twin Cities to halt pollution of the Mississippi river.

Tuesday—Rep. G. W. Johnson of Duluth charged that the state department of education administers the law concerning state aid in a "dictatorial and oppressive manner."

Wednesday—Group of legislators started campaign for selection of the Wabasha street or so-called "backyard" site for the proposed new state office building.

Tuesday—Adjourned. Friday—Bill introduced in house to lower tax on uncultivated farm land as method of relief for farmers. Senate held "formal" session but transacted no business.

VOICED IN REPORT OF ARTHUR JOHNSON, CHIEF STATE PUBLIC EXAMINER

TREASURER IS CHARGED WITH COLLECTING $225 FOR DUPLICATE TAX LISTS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Criticism of Sheriff B. E. Schoener and Treasurer L. J. Kost of Stearns County for certain acts in conduct of their offices was voiced today in a report of Arthur Johnson, chief state public examiner.

He said the sheriff's charge of 20 cents a mile for use of his private automobile was "unreasonable in comparison with the amount paid other sheriffs in the state."

Kost was criticized for collecting $225 for duplicate tax lists compiled by county employees and supposedly pocketing the money for himself; and for $41,500 overpayments of county funds in state banks.

During that time, the senate acted finally on only one of the 11 routine appropriation bills, although it quickly passed the emergency appropriation to provide work for the jobless.

The senate was to vote today to provide $20,000,000 for the purpose it sought to serve with $15,000,000 in December. It is voting after prolonged sparring between Mr. Hoover, Secretary Hyde and senate leaders in which Hyde finally was maneuvered into making a written statement that loans from the $20,000,000 could be used to purchase food.

Minority Leader Robinson's acceptance of the $20,000,000 compromise in place of the $50,000,000 relief program originally sponsored in a democratic ultimatum, has shaken the Arkansan's hold on his party in the senate. He still is the leader and is expected to remain so. But in the past few days he has been assailed on the floor by his followers in a manner few surviving leaders have experienced.

SENATE APPROVES THE $20,000,000 DROUGHT RELIEF

TALKED OUT, SENATE AT LAST COMES TO A VOTE THIS AFTERNOON

VOTE STOOD FOR ADOPTION OF BILL, 67; AGAINST ADOPTION, 15

By LYLE C. WILSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—The senate today approved the $20,000,000 drought relief compromise.

The vote on adoption of the report was: For adoption, 67; against adoption, 15.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Bacon and beans or some substitute for such staples to a maximum value of $20,000,000 are to be voted drought-stricken farm families today by a talked-out senate.

An hour's taste of a tight session obtained unanimous agreement last night to vote on the relief measure by 2 P. M. today. The fight is almost over. Most opponents of the compromise relief program concede their inability to defeat the appropriation.

The administration views the appropriation as primarily designed to rehabilitate credit in the drought areas. But under an interpretation by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, borrowers may use federal loans to purchase food.

The senate and the White House have battled almost three months over this issue. On December 2 Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee introduced in the senate a $60,000,000 relief measure which would have provided food loans. He said it represented the recommendations of the agriculture department.

President Hoover challenged the food loan policy. The senate stood by the McNary bill and passed it, but the house reduced the appropriation to $45,000,000, limited loans to the purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, gasoline and oil, and precipitated the relief dispute which has continued until today.

During that time, the senate acted finally on only one of the 11 routine appropriation bills, although it quickly passed the emergency appropriation to provide work for the jobless.

3RD MAIL ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD BY ST. PAUL POLICE

2 MEN CAPTURED IN RUNNING GUN FIGHT FRIDAY IMPLICATED ANOTHER

TRIO TO BE ARRAIGNED MONDAY ON CHARGES OF ROBBERING MAILS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—A third mail robbery suspect was being held by postal authorities today after two men captured in a running gun fight Friday implicated him in a confession.

The three were to be arraigned Monday on charges of robbing the mails. The third man is Ray Peake, St. Paul, who according to the stories of Clement Bean, 22, and Robert Parker, 27, took part in a series of gasoline station and store robberies with them during the last few months, police said.

The confession of Bean, postal inspectors said, implicates the men in auto thefts and holdups in Pine Island, Racine, Owatonna, and Osborn Heath, including the stealing of a mail pouch at Racine.

Today they were to be questioned in connection with the mail pouch theft at Morris where 21 pouches were taken and the St. Paul postal robbery on February 2 when $35,000 loot was stolen.

Parker and Bean were captured after an all night chase through several southern Minnesota counties. Police traced them to Owatonna after they had kidnapped Policeman Ed Hagen of Cannon Falls when he stopped them. Rochester police had forced them into an easily traceable taxicab when they shot up their first car.

MAJ.-GEN. EDWARDS CALLED TO REWARD

BECAME A HERO OF TWO WARS DURING 49 YEARS' MILITARY SERVICE

By HENRY MINOTT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, Feb. 14.—Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, retired, who became a hero of two wars during 49 years of military service, died at 7:06 A. M. today.

The war-time commander of the 26th (Yankee) Division, known to his doughboys as "Daddy," was 71 years old.

Death followed closely a second operation performed yesterday to relieve an intestinal disorder against which the celebrated soldier had waged a gritty, month-long fight at Phillips House of Massachusetts general hospital.

Because of his advanced age, it was feared either might seriously affect his heart. So he underwent the operation with only a local anesthetic. Afterward he smoked a cigarette.

For a time the elderly patient was able to take small amounts of nourishment. When, several days ago, it became impossible for him to retain food in any form except for an occasional egg-nog, his strength waned rapidly.

Three times calls went forth for volunteers to submit to blood transfusions. Of hundreds of officers, those of three of the general's former doughboys were accepted.

Until yesterday a lingering hope for his recovery was held. After the second operation, however, he failed to rally, lapsing into a coma from which he never fully emerged.

At midnight he was partially conscious for a brief interval.

Sir Evans, Former English Secretary of War, Dies

London, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Sir Laming Worthington Evans, 62, secretary of war in the last conservative government, died suddenly at his home in Southwest London last night.

SWEEP HILLS BACK OF TOWN OF WELTON

KNOWN DEAD IN CAR WHICH WAS SWIFT FROM ROAD BY WATERS

4 MISSING WERE LIVING IN AUTOMOBILE CAMP GROUNDS OF THE TOWN

Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Two persons were drowned and at least six others were missing as a result of cloudbursts which swept the hills back of Welton, Ariz., late last night, the Yuma county sheriff's office was informed early today.

The known dead, as yet unidentified, were members of a party of four whose automobile was swept from the road by the onrushing waters. Bodies of the other two had not been recovered at daybreak.

Four other persons who were believed missing were living in automobile camp grounds at Welton which were swept away by the torrents.

The water poured out of the hills for a distance of one-half mile with a maximum width of 300 feet and swept directly through the town before losing force.

A mile and a half of the Southern Pacific tracks were reported washed out at one point.

Water flowed down the streets four feet deep, sweeping away several tourist cabins and small houses.

Seventy-five automobiles, including a Greyhound stage and its passengers, were reported marooned two miles east of town.

The avalanche of water, five feet high and 300 feet wide, rushed down Coyote Wash, overturning an automobile containing five persons.

Two bridges, one in town and one nine miles east of Tacha, were torn away. At Tacha trains were stalled on each side of town.

Communication lines here were disrupted but shortly before midnight service was resumed temporarily with Yuma and then went out again.

Heavy rains throughout the state the last two days stored a vast amount of water in the hills which swept down the canyons when barriers gave way.

CUSTOMS BORDER PATROLMAN ADMITS TAKING BRIBES

Detroit, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Perry Gibson, 35, former customs border patrolman here and more recently a member of the Minneapolis police department, was sentenced to 20 months in Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday afternoon after he had pleaded guilty to taking bribes.

JOHN GILBERT AND WIFE, INA CLAIRE, ARE TO SEPARATE

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—John Gilbert and his wife, Ina Claire, both film stars, have agreed to separate, according to their announcement, but both refused today to state whether they contemplated divorce.

Miss Claire returned to California last night after completing a personal appearance in the east. She arrived at Pasadena and appeared vexed when Gilbert did not meet her.

The announcement which they issued later from their Beverly Hills home was a surprise to their friends, although there had been rumors for months concerning them.

THIS WEEK IN THE MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE

By United Press St. Paul, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Adjournment for Lincoln's birthday and over Saturday prevented Minnesota's legislators this week from transacting more than routine business.

Charges of "unsatisfactory conduct" were made against F. A. Duxbury, state industrial commissioner, and against the Minnesota department of education, but no action was taken.

The day-by-day activities: Monday—House was urged to adopt an unified system of sewage disposal for the Twin Cities to halt pollution of the Mississippi river.

Tuesday—Rep. G. W. Johnson of Duluth charged that the state department of education administers the law concerning state aid in a "dictatorial and oppressive manner."

Wednesday—Group of legislators started campaign for selection of the Washburn street or so-called "backyard" site for the proposed new state office building.

Thursday—Adjourned. Friday—Bill introduced in house to lower tax on uncultivated farm land as method of relief for farmers. Senate held "formal" session but transacted no business. Saturday—Adjourned.

FAIRLY ACTIVE MARKET TURNOVER

FEW ISSUES MAKE GAINS, INCLUDING AUBURN AUTO-MOBILE

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)
New York, Feb. 14.—Further selling reduced prices fractions to more than a point in many issues on the New York stock exchange today in fairly active turnover.

A few issues made gains, including Auburn Automobile, which was up 2 points at 17 1/2, Worthington Pump, up 1 at 194 1/4, and a few others up fractionally.

Heavy selling came into Radio Corporation and the issue broke nearly a point to 18. This unloading was induced by decision of the U. S. circuit court of appeals upholding decision of a lower court that patent pooling among Radio Corporation, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone and several other companies in manufacture of radio tubes was in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

PUEBLO PUBLISHER IS SENTENCED ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Pueblo, Colo., Feb. 14.—(UP)—George H. Sweeney, Pueblo publisher, was sentenced to an indefinite term in jail today by District Judge John H. Voorhees on the charge of contempt of court. Attorneys for Sweeney obtained a 20-day stay of execution of the sentence.

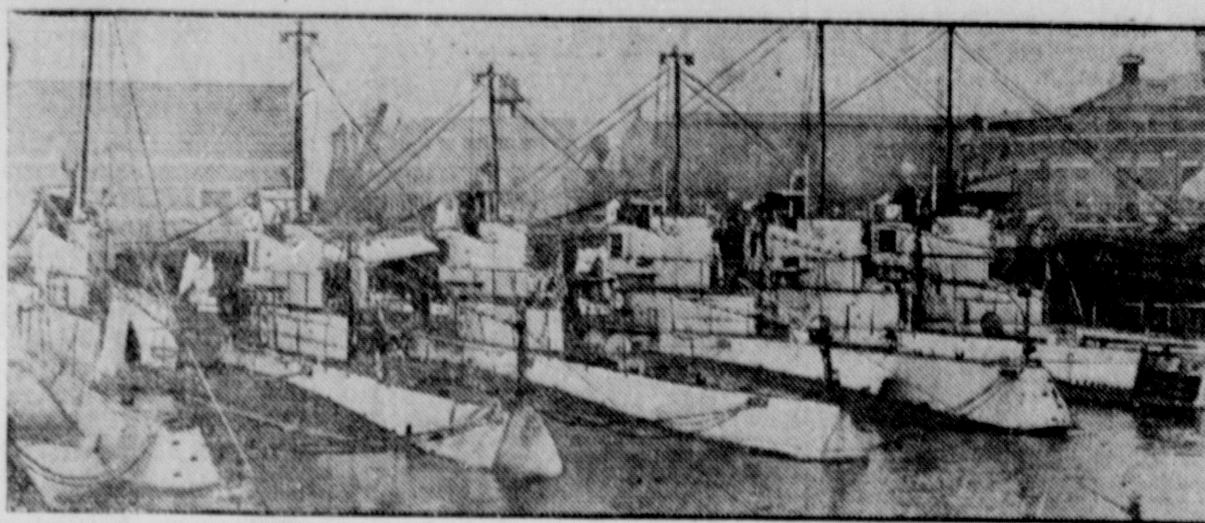

The contempt action against Sweeney grew out of his refusal to testify in proceedings before Judge Voorhees in connection with a $20,000 judgment against Sweeney and N. W. Duke. The proceedings were for the purpose of ascertaining the location of Sweeney's assets which could be levied upon to satisfy the judgment which Duke and Sweeney have appealed to the state supreme court where the case now is pending.

Barron, Wis., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Preliminary examination will be conducted here Feb. 19 for Mrs. Bertha Stoerber, of Alemana, who is charged with practicing medicine without a license. The Children's Corner

Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Creatures Queer

The Echidna or Porcupine Ant Eater. If you will pull on your seven league boots we will just stroll over to Australia for a few moments and find a queer creature that looks a little like our own prickly porcupine.

To begin with he is called a Porcupine Ant Eater. You can see the sharp spurs on his back and tail. He can raise these and roll himself into a ball when he is frightened, just as our porcupines do. When rolled up he looks just like a great chestnut burr.

HUNGRY PORCUPINE ANT-EATER.

and naturally nobody wants to touch him, he is so unpleasantly prickly. He never has to go to the dentist, for he has no teeth! But he does have the longest tongue you can imagine, and with the tip, which is rather sticky, he picks up unlucky ants and other insects and grubs.

His eyes are very small indeed, and his ears do not show at all. His legs are short and the fore paws are not divided into separate toes, but claws come directly out of the end of the paw. You can see how extraordinary his hind feet are. Perhaps you think the artist made a mistake and drew his feet upside down or backside to, but that is the way they really look. You see, he is something of an engineer. He digs tunnels very often, so in what more satisfactory way could his feet be made for kicking out dirt and stones as he goes along?

Fiddler Crabs.

On the bank of a small river down on Cape Cod, while the summer tide pulls the water from the river out to the sea, there is the strangest sight. The little beach below suddenly begins to move and glide swiftly out after the water. You have seen tall grasses so swept by the wind that the whole field seemed to roll along? Well, that is what this sandy beach appears to be doing.

But this is what really happens, for of course no favorite beach would ever think of running away. Hundreds and hundreds of small crabs that live in little holes in the sand just at the edge of the high water have come out of their holes all at once and are running as fast as they can down over the wet beach in search of a little lunch. Their fat bodies move closely together and cover the sand entirely, making the beach seem truly alive.

They hurry on, stopping every now and then to wave one claw frantically in the air. Perhaps they are signaling to one another—inviting a friend to lunch, but as soon as you are close enough to examine them you will discover at once who they are, and then it is easy to guess the rest. They are Fiddler Crabs. One claw has grown very, very large, while the other is small. The large claw is the fiddle, of course, and the other the bow.

Fiddler Crab is just their every day name. When one of them appears in print or on exhibition, like many other musicians he adopts a stage name, and is called Signor Uca Gelasimus Pugilator. No doubt that makes him feel more important.

As a family, Fiddler Crabs are very highly strung, which means they are just the least bit nervous. When you lean down to listen to their tunes, they get a dreadful fright and, running sideways, each one dashes into the nearest hole he can find, regardless of whether it is his own or not! Sometimes two or three squeeze into the same hole, only to be inhospiably pulled out by the rightful owner when he arrives.

WIFE, AGED 34, HELD FOR QUESTIONING BY THE POLICE AUTHORITIES

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Stabbed by his wife when he attacked her with a club, Matthew Kovach, 37, was dead today and his wife, Rose, 34, was held for questioning.

While their six small children looked on, Mrs. Kovach last night plunged a butcher knife into her husband's chest as he raised a broken table leg to strike her, she told police. Kovach and another man drank two quarts of liquor before the attack, she said.

Mrs. Kovach called police after the fatal stabbing and as the ambulance sped to County Emergency hospital it collided with a police squad car. The ambulance overturned, injuring the driver and an attendant. Both cars crashed into another automobile parked at the curb.

The six children substantiated their mother's story. The oldest child is Ruth, 14, and the others are Julia, 12, Barbara, 11, Helen, 9, Matthew, 7, and Katherine, 5.

Kovach had been out of work for nearly a year, the woman told police. Last Tuesday they decided to install a still hoping to sell enough liquor to obtain funds to pay their long overdue rent.

"Matt had been drinking all week," Mrs. Kovach said. "He scratched me and hit me twice before I grabbed a knife from the table and stabbed him."

"Take me to jail and be good to the children," the woman said when police arrived.

FAIRLY ACTIVE MARKET TURNOVER

FEW ISSUES MAKE GAINS, INCLUDING AUBURN AUTO.

MOBILE
By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Feb. 14.—Further selling reduced prices fractions to more than a point in many issues on the New York stock exchange today in fairly active turnover.

A few issues made gains, including Auburn Automobile, which was up 2 points at 17 1/2, Worthington Pump, up 1 at 194 1/4, and a few others up fractionally.

Heavy selling came into Radio Corporation and the issue broke nearly a point to 18. This unloading was induced by decision of the U. S. circuit court of appeals upholding decision of a lower court that patent pooling among Radio Corporation, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone and several other companies in manufacture of radio tubes was in violation of the Clayton antitrust act.

1 FIREMAN KILLED, 3 INJURED; TRAPPED UNDER FALLING WALL

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 14.—(UP)—One fireman was killed and three others were injured early today when they were trapped under a falling wall while fighting a fire at the H. B. Smith Paper Box company plant on the waterfront here. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Edward Braebender, 37, who was killed, was buried under the debris and several hours elapsed before his body was recovered. Those injured were Edward Heffron, 36; John Oldiges, 46, and John Mullen, 27.

PUEBLO PUBLISHER IS SENTENCED ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Pueblo, Colo., Feb. 14.—(UP)—George H. Sweeney, Pueblo publisher, was sentenced today by District Judge John H. Voorhees on the charge of contempt of court. Attorneys for Sweeney obtained a 20-day stay of execution of the sentence.

The contempt action against Sweeney grew out of his refusal to testify in proceedings before Judge Voorhees in connection with a $20,000 judgment against Sweeney and N. W. Duke. The proceedings were for the purpose of ascertaining the location of Sweeney's assets which could be levied upon to satisfy the judgment which Duke and Sweeney have appealed to the state supreme court where the case now is pending.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH PRACTICING MEDICINE WITHOUT A LICENSE

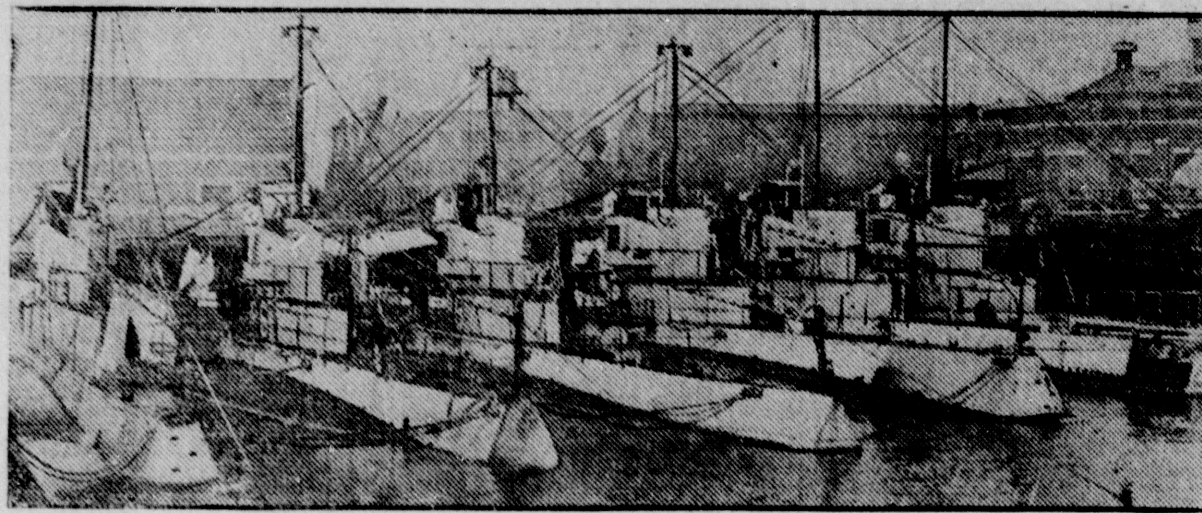

Barron, Wis., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Preliminary examination will be conducted here Feb. 19 for Mrs. Bertha Stoerber, of Alemena, who is charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Mrs. Stoerber is a sister of John Tull, "mad doctor," of 10 years ago, who was jailed for his activities. After his sentence, hundreds asked for his release claiming they would die unless they could obtain treatments.

Mrs. Stoerber is charged with treating patients with plasters of her own manufacture.

Belgium, Wis., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Fire departments from four towns were unable to prevent the burning to death last night of 1,000 spring chickens at the three story hatchery of Emil Denge. Equipment from Cedar Grove, Port Washington, Fredonia, and Belgium fought the blaze which was believed to have started from a stove explosion.

Creatures Queer

The Echidna or Porcupine Ant Eater. If you will pull on your seven league boots we will stroll over to Australia for a few moments and find a queer creature that looks a little like our own prickly porcupine.

To begin with he is called a Porcupine Ant Eater. You can see the sharp spurs on his back and tail. He can raise these and roll himself into a ball when he is frightened. Just as our porcupines do. When rolled up he looks just like a great chestnut burr.

that live in little holes in the sand just at the edge of the high water have come out of their holes all at once and are running as fast as they can down over the wet beach in search of a little lunch. Their fat bodies move closely together and cover the sand entirely, making the beach seem truly alive.

They hurry on, stopping every now and then to wave one claw frantically in the air. Perhaps they are signaling to one another—inviting a friend to lunch, but as soon as you are close enough to examine them you will discover at once who they are, and then it is easy to guess the rest. They are Fiddler Crabs. One claw has grown very, very large, while the other is small. The large claw is the fiddle, of course, and the other the bow.

Fiddler Crab is just their every day name. When one of them appears in print or on exhibition, like many other and naturally nobody wants to touch him, he is so unpleasantly prickly. He never has to go to the dentist, for he has no teeth! But he does have the longest tongue you can imagine, and with the tip, which is rather sticky, he picks up unlucky ants and other insects and grubs.

His eyes are very small indeed, and his ears do not show at all. His legs are short and the fore paws are not divided into separate toes, but claws come directly out of the end of the paw. You can see how extraordinary his hind feet are. Perhaps you think the artist made a mistake and drew his feet upside down or backside to, but that is the way they really look. You see, he is something of an engineer. He digs tunnels very often, so in what more satisfactory way could his feet be made for kicking out dirt and stones as he goes along?

Fiddler Crabs.

On the bank of a small river down on Cape Cod, while the summer tide pulls the water from the river out to the sea, there is the strangest sight. The little beach below suddenly begins to move and glide swiftly out after the water. You have seen tall grasses so swept by the wind that the whole field seemed to roll along? Well, that is what this sandy beach appears to be doing.

But this is what really happens, for of course no favorite beach would ever think of running away. Hundreds and hundreds of small crabs er musicians he adopts a stage name, and is called Signor Uca Gelasimus Pugilator. No doubt that makes him feel more important.

As a family, Fiddler Crabs are very highly strung, which means they are just the least bit nervous. When you lean down to listen to their tunes, they get a dreadful fright and, running sideways, each one dashes into the nearest hole he can find, regardless of whether it is his own or not! Sometimes two or three squeeze into the same hole, only to be inhumanly pulled out by the rightful owner when he arrives.

Why Mention the Boy Scouts?

"WHY do you give so much space to the Boy Scouts?" asked a man this week. He had contributed a lengthy article on a moral subject of considerable general interest and it had not been used in the Verde Copper News. He thought we should have held out the Scout news to publish his article. The editor would like to print everything that everybody wants printed, but with limited space, someone has to exercise his best judgment in the selection of matter, so the editor just does the best he can in selecting his own matter.

"The Boy Scouts are just a bunch of kids," the author above mentioned said, "Nobody cares about what they do."

But the editor has never seen a Boy Scout drunk or in jail. The only time we ever saw a Boy Scout in police court was when the boy gave testimony against a hit-and-run driver.

The editor lived with Boy Scouts for several years. If he wanted to hire a boy for any responsible position he would insist on his being a Boy Scout.

Scouting builds into a boy's makeup strong fibres of character. It makes him staunch of heart and strong of mind. It has proven itself to be a builder of true manhood. Every Boy Scout is an influence for good where he lives. Every Scout organization helps to encourage and preserve the lessons of clean living, of manly courage, of industry and thrift, of the obligation of helpfulness to those needing help, and of all the things that make for right living.

Scouting makes real Americans out of thoughtless youths. If every boy in America were a member our country soon would have the finest citizenship in the world. If every boy in the United States were a Scout there would be few, if any, gangsters and gunmen at the end of twenty years. If all the boys were Scouts there would be no need for any newspaper to publish articles regarding the nation's morals.

But Scouts have other training besides moral development. They are trained in life saving. In the Florida disaster last year Boy Scouts saved hundreds of lives. They are active not only in time of disaster, but in every day life. They are taught first how to take care of themselves. They are then taught how to take care of others. The Boy Scout motto: "Be Prepared," is, if applied to life generally, the greatest possible factor in success.

We might leave out the editorials to make room for contributions which patrons desire printed, or we might, just might, mind you, curtail the advertising matter to make room for something else, but so long as this editor has any voice in the matter the Boy Scouts can have any blamed thing within the bounds of reason.—Verde Copper News, Jerome, Arizona.

New Style of Truant Officers

TRUANT officers aren't what they used to be, says the Little Falls Daily Transcript. The beginning and end of the truant officer's duty formerly was to catch kids who played hooky and scare them into going back to school again. Today, in many places, the truancy department of the public school system has become a social agency devoted to discovering and developing all the child resources of the community. Here are some of the activities of the up-to-date truant officer:

He tries to obtain the attendance at school of all children of school age by cooperation and education if possible. Force is only a last resort.

He encourages attendance at school of children not required by law to be in school.

He issues the required employment certificates under conditions prescribed by law.

He supervises children in industry.

His department offers vocational guidance through cooperation with welfare agencies.

It takes a school census yearly and maintains an accurate system of child accounting.

It works for legislation concerning schooling and child labor as the best interest of the community may require.

The truant officer, like the policeman, is the children's friend these days.

Legislation About Car Licenses

At every session of the legislature there must be what one legislator has termed "horse-play" concerning the time when license money for cars shall be due and payable. Regularly is brought up the story that car owners are in hard circumstances and that there should be an extension in the time of payment of licenses.

This maneuver of certain legislators is given much publicity and some car owners think, "Well, if there is to be more time to pay, we'll wait before we send in our money." No extension follows and the license department is overwhelmed with work at the close.

If there is to be any change in the time of payments, why not take it up after the regular period and not upset existing conditions. Legislate for a year or more hence, not for the present period. Collections in any line of business are hard enough as it is. Why make it harder for the department by throwing out such a sop as giving further time, which has never yet been accomplished.

NEWSPAPER advertising can be accurately checked by the advertiser and its benefits determined. Copy can be checked as to results. There is something definite as to reader interest. Radio advertising, on the other hand, cannot be checked as accurately. There may be a flood of fan mail, altogether no indication as to the buying wave expected.

THE farm, thought by many to be the most peaceful place on earth, often carries danger in many forms. For instance, the past week a farm boy was killed in a car accident near a farm and a farm woman was gored to death by a bull.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Nancy Hollenbeck, young and beautiful, wants to keep her newest beau, Mat Tufty, all to herself. Returning from a ride she leaves him at the door to avoid her mother's questionings and her sister's stares. Later Mrs. Hollenbeck warns Nancy against her own mistake of marrying a poor man. Nancy, after a sleepless night, decides to follow her mother's advice. She breaks a date with Mat. Louise and Nancy attend the annual house party of the rich Craigs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

NANCY MEETS JACK BEAMER, HANDSOME SPORTSMAN

CHAPTER V.
DON'T know why I asked Jack Beamer, Mrs. Craig mourned, on the second night of the house party.

Mr. Craig (John P. Craig, of Craig & Kaufman, Realtors) sighed and looked at his watch, but it was only ten o'clock, a little too early to suggest retiring. "I don't know, either," he yawned.

"Still—everybody asks him—"

"Well, don't ask him again," Mr. Craig suggested, irritably, discovering that he had played a queen on a jack and the Canfield that was coming along so nicely was completely ruined.

Seven summers at the same place had killed any love he had ever had for Craigfield. It was all right at first. He and Cora—he called her "Mama" in those days—had gone boating, and even swimming in the river, with May Belle, a twelve-year-old tomboy, paddling like a frenzied frog and squealing, "Look at me, Daddy! Look! I'm not touching bottom!" May Belle and the Hollenbeck girls—especially the pretty one, Nancy—used to think he was a wonderful swimmer and he would demonstrate his prowess by the hour. "Watch me. See how I kick? HARD!"

Old-Fashioned

But now everybody used fancy strokes that made his stolid breast stroke seem slow and old fashioned, and besides the water was much colder than it used to be. The camp wasn't so comfortable, either. They had added to it and added to it, improved and improved, until it was just a city house in the country, and one might as well be home. May Belle was a young lady now, with the little friends he had once liked so well turned into silly, chattering women, and supercilious slick-haired society men, who ostracized him completely, as if he were a hundred and ten. Even Jack Beamer, who was thirty-five if he was a day and would naturally be expected to be a little company for his host, was spending every moment with the younger fry. There was nothing left for John P. Craig but solitude and signing checks.

He's paying too much attention to Nancy Hollenbeck," his wife went on, twirling her rings nervously as she talked. "I don't like it. May Belle says that all the girls have noticed it, and I don't want anything like that going on in my house. I don't know WHAT Kitty Hollenbeck would say, she has brought up those girls so carefully!"

"Nothing to worry about—Nancy's no fool!"

"That's just it, John. I don't like it. She knows his reputation. I hate to say it, but May Belle thinks she's setting her cap for him. They're been together every minute!"

"Pshaw! Suppose they have! Why, Nancy is only a baby—"

"No, she isn't. You wouldn't believe how wise and calculating they are at nineteen. And, after all, Beamer is rich and not 'bad looking.' I'm so nervous—I hate to have things going on in my house—"

"Tut, tut, Cora. Beamer's all right!"

"No, he ISN'T all right. Look at the scandal he was mixed up in last year with that actress that sued him. I don't know why I asked him. But of course everybody does, it's supposed to be a real feather in your cap to get Jack Beamer to come to one of your parties. May Belle was set on it. Just because he plays polo and comes from a fine old English family."

"All the English come from fine families—they SAY!"

"But Jack Beamer really does, John. I don't mean that he isn't all right, that way. How can you pretend any different, when everybody knows that was just why that rich woman married him—"

"And why did he marry that anaemic bag of bones, old enough to be his grandmother?"

John Craig's small gray eyes were twinkling. If he could tease Cora and May Belle about their

She was looking her best tonight in a dress of filmy, flame colored stuff, her cheeks as red as her dress. "I'm bartender, Gil Neal, don't you DARE touch the gin. But I'll let you squeeze the oranges—Gil darling—the ORANGES, not me!"

"Don't hurry me—the oranges next!" Gilbert Neal giggled, and coming from the butler's pantry his voice sounded shrill and high—almost effeminate. Certainly he wasn't the son-in-law John Craig would have picked.

"What can a fine, tall girl like May Belle see in a skinny little fellow like that?" he wanted to know, but his wife waved him impatiently aside. "Shh!" She wanted to listen. "Gil Neal, son of one of the State's oldest families...well, why SHOULDNT he notice May Belle? A lovely girl like that...the Neals ought to be GLAD to get a little new blood into the family, not to mention the money she'd bring..."

And so she forgot her worry about Jack Beamer, who apparently couldn't remember he was married, and Nancy, who certainly was making no effort to remind him. She did not even notice that they had not come in from the porch with the others, and were out somewhere in the darkness now.

Mutual Interest

But two others noticed it—Louise and her last dancing partner, Matthew Tufty.

"Let's get outside and get some air," Louise suggested a little timidly.

society friends once in a while he could endure them better. He was a go-getter, a money-maker, an out and out Rabbit, from the top of his bullet head to the soles of his big, square feet. He "provided well" for his family, worshipped them, and wished he knew them better. Especially May Belle, who was growing away from him so fast...

"Of course, if you're going to be funny!" Mrs. Craig sniffed, and got no further, for the whole crowd swooned in upon them, panting and laughing after a strenuous dance on the porch, shouting for food.

"And gin! Lots of gin!" May Belle's voice was the loudest of them all.

"I wish you'd leave the hard liquor for your old dad!" he used to say. He had never got used to seeing nice young girls drinking and smoking. But May Belle only laughed at him and Cora took her part. Everybody drank nowadays, even the youngest debs...oh, well...May Belle was a fine girl...

idly. As "the plain" Hollenbeck girl, she was always a little self-conscious with men, always afraid they were anxious to get rid of her and get back to a livelier, prettier partner. Still, it would look queer, going out alone to look for Nancy. With an escort it would look so much more natural, so much more careless...

"Fine!" Mat downed the last of his cocktail, and took her by the arm. "Let's go and walk by the river." He had seen a pale, fluttering skirt disappearing a few moments ago, down the river path.

"Yes, it will be beautiful there," Lou, who had seen the same thing, agreed gratefully, impatient to be on the way. She MUST get a word with Nancy! Nancy must be crazy, dodging Mat, whom she had seemed so wild about just a few short days ago, slipping away from the others every chance she got, to whisper in corners with Jack Beamer, a MARRIED man...

MAGGIE REILLY HOLDS THE FORT

EMBATTLED SPINSTER HOLDS UP ROAD EXTENSION AT WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(UP)—Maggie Reilly, the embattled spinster of Westchester, still held the fort today, and a battalion of workmen with a steam shovel camped just out of range of her artillery, unable to proceed with the new extension of the Saw Mill River Parkway.

Maggie is holding out for $90,000 for her 65-year-old farm house, although it has been condemned for $17,000. It stands directly in the way of the Parkway, and must be torn down before the workmen can go farther, but Maggie refuses to move.

Several scouting expeditions were sent out by the county forces yesterday and minor engagements were reported.

At the first call for volunteers, assistant county engineer George Haight stepped forward and went over the top into the no man's land of Maggie's front yard. He knocked on the door.

"Who's there?" shouted Maggie from the inside, following the question with a barrage of language which caused Haight to retreat speedily to his own trenches.

A council of war was held, and a reporter was nominated to scouting duty. His knock on the door was followed at once by another "Who's there?" and an over-ripe tomato, which nearly caused him to become the first casualty of the war.

The battle was called off for the day, while the county fathers considered an application to the supreme court

Why Mention the Boy Scouts?

"WHY do you give so much space to the Boy Scouts?" asked a man this week. He had contributed a lengthy article on a moral subject of considerable general interest and it had not been used in the Verde Copper News. He thought we should have held out the Scout news to publish his article. The editor would like to print everything that everybody wants printed, but with limited space, someone has to exercise his best judgment in the selection of matter, so the editor just does the best he can in selecting his own matter.

"The Boy Scouts are just a bunch of kids," the author above mentioned said, "Nobody cares about what they do."

But the editor has never seen a Boy Scout drunk or in jail. The only time we ever saw a Boy Scout in police court was when the boy gave testimony against a hit-and-run driver.

The editor lived with Boy Scouts for several years. If he wanted to hire a boy for any responsible position he would insist on his being a Boy Scout.

Scouting builds into a boy's makeup strong fibres of character. It makes him staunch of heart and strong of mind. It has proven itself to be a builder of true manhood. Every Boy Scout is an influence for good where he lives. Every Scout organization helps to encourage and preserve the lessons of clean living, of manly courage, of industry and thrift, of the obligation of helpfulness to those needing help, and of all the things that make for right living.

Scouting makes real Americans out of thoughtless youths. If every boy in America were a member our country soon would have the finest citizenship in the world. If every boy in the United States were a Scout there would be few, if any, gangsters and gunmen at the end of twenty years. If all the boys were Scouts there would be no need for any newspaper to publish articles regarding the nation's morals.

But Scouts have other training besides moral development. They are trained in life saving. In the Florida disaster last year Boy Scouts saved hundreds of lives. They are active not only in time of disaster, but in every day life. They are taught first how to take care of themselves. They are then taught how to take care of others. The Boy Scout motto: "Be Prepared," is, if applied to life generally, the greatest possible factor in success.

We might leave out the editorials to make room for contributions which patrons desire printed, or we might, just might, mind you, curtail the advertising matter to make room for something else, but so long as this editor has any voice in the matter the Boy Scouts can have any blamed thing within the bounds of reason.—Verde Copper News, Jerome, Arizona.

New Style of Truant Officers

TRUANT officers aren't what they used to be, says the Little Falls Daily Transcript. The beginning and end of the truant officer's duty formerly was to catch kids who played hooky and scare them into going back to school again. Today, in many places, the truancy department of the public school system has become a social agency devoted to discovering and developing all the child resources of the community. Here are some of the activities of the up-to-date truant officer:

He tries to obtain the attendance at school of all children of school age by cooperation and education if possible. Force is only a last resort.

He encourages attendance at school of children not required by law to be in school.

He issues the required employment certificates under conditions prescribed by law.

He supervises children in industry.

His department offers vocational guidance through cooperation with welfare agencies.

It takes a school census yearly and maintains an accurate system of child accounting.

It works for legislation concerning schooling and child labor as the best interest of the community may require.

The truant officer, like the policeman, is the children's friend these days.

Legislation About Car Licenses

AT every session of the legislature there must be what one legislator has termed "horse-play" concerning the time when license money for cars shall be due and payable. Regularly is brought up the story that car owners are in hard circumstances and that there should be an extension in the time of payment of licenses.

This maneuver of certain legislators is given much publicity and some car owners think, "Well, if there is to be more time to pay, we'll wait before we send in our money." No extension follows and the license department is overwhelmed with work at the close.

If there is to be any change in the time of payments, why not take it up after the regular period and not upset existing conditions. Legislate for a year or more hence, not for the present period. Collections in any line of business are hard enough as it is. Why make it harder for the department by throwing out such a sop as giving further time, which has never yet been accomplished.

"Let's get out and get some air," Louise suggested a little timidly.

society friends once in a while he could endure them better. He was a go-getter, a money-maker, an out and out Babbitt, from the top of his bullet head to the soles of his big, square feet. He "provided well" for his family, worshipped them, and wished he knew them better. Especially May Belle, who was growing away from him so fast...

"Of course, if you're going to be funny," Mrs. Craig sniffed, and got no further, for the whole crowd swept in upon them, panting and laughing after a strenuous dance on the porch, shouting for food, "And gin! Lots of gin!" May Belle's voice was the loudest of them all.

"I wish you'd leave the hard liquor for your old dad!" he used to say. He had never got used to seeing nice young girls drinking and smoking. But May Belle only laughed at him and Cora took her part. Everybody drank nowadays, even the youngest debs... oh, well... May Belle was a fine girl...

EMBATTLED SPINSTER HOLDS UP ROAD EXTENSION AT WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—Maggie Reilly, the embattled spinster of Westchester, still held the fort today, and a battalion of workmen with a steam shovel camped just out of range of her artillery, unable to proceed with the new extension of the Saw Mill River Parkway.

Maggie is holding out for $90,000 for her 65-year-old farm house, although it has been condemned for $17,000. It stands directly in the way of the Parkway, and must be torn down before the workmen can go farther, but Maggie refuses to move.

Several scouting expeditions were sent out by the county forces yesterday and minor engagements were reported.

At the first call for volunteers, assistant county engineer George Haight stepped forward and went over the top into the no man's land of Maggie's front yard. He knocked on the door.

"Who's there?" shouted Maggie from the inside, following the question with a barrage of language which caused Haight to retreat speedily to his own trenches.

A council of war was held, and a reporter was nominated to scouting duty. His knock on the door was followed at once by another "Who's there?" and an over-ripe tomato, which nearly caused him to become the first casualty of the war.

The battle was called off for the day, while the county fathers considered an application to the supreme court

50,000 GARMENTS IS 1931 FACTORY GOAL

S. R. Hickerson, President, Views Year Hopefully; Has Successful Selling Tour

PAST YEAR ENCOURAGING

Hickerson Company to Keep 40 Busy Throughout Year as Outlook Appears

Encouraged by the fact that 1930, generally classed among years of depression, little affected the company's output of garments, S. R. Hickerson, president of Hickerson and Co., South Sixth street, Brainerd, garment manufacturer, looked forward optimistically today to reaching a 50,000 output of garments this year.

Future successful operation of the factory in 1931 was practically assured by Mr. Hickerson following his return from a fruitful selling trip east, including Ogdensburg, Pittsburg, New York City, N. Y., Bangor, Maine, Baltimore, Cleveland, Boston, Toledo, Washington, Chicago and Milwaukee.

"Conditions look bright for 1931. We are working a capacity crew of 40 and expect to be busy throughout the entire year," Mr. Hickerson said.

During 1930 between 30,000 and 40,000 garments were manufactured. Forty people were employed throughout the year with the exception of two weeks in December when the factory was closed for repairs and remodeling.

The company paid its usual six percent dividend on preferred stock.

Stockholders reelected for the year the following officers:

President—S. R. Hickerson. Vice President—Con O'Brien. Secretary-Treasurer—R. R. Gould. Board of Directors—S. R. Hickerson, Con O'Brien, R. R. Gould, Walter P. Tyrholm, W. H. Cleary.

EARL CARROLL'S SHOW "SKETCH BOOK" IS RAIDED

IN ONE SCENE GIRL AND THREE MEN STOOD IN A BATH TUB

MANAGER, BROTHER OF EARL, 2 COMEDIANS, 28 CHORUS GIRLS ARRESTED

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Earl Carroll's musical comedy "Sketch Book," in one scene of which a girl and three men stood in a bath tub and threw water at each other, was raided and stopped last night by police.

The manager, James Carroll, brother of Earl, two comedians and 28 chorus girls were arrested. They were taken in patrol wagons to a police station and charged with taking part in an obscene performance.

Bonds of $1,000 each were set by Judge Francis Borelli, who released the performers on their own recognizance. The last one filed past the desk sergeant early today and left for her hotel.

The raid was conducted by Deputy Commissioner John Alcock, whose investigator, Henry Melvin, had seen the show, which opened three weeks ago. Carroll and others connected with the show declared the raid was not justified and believed it was due partly to scenes ridiculing the Chicago police department.

The twelfth scene of act one was being staged when the police appeared. Don Howard, a star, was in the center of the stage, crooning "Song of the Moonbeams." He was surrounded by scantily clad girls.

Scanlon marched down an aisle, followed by six uniformed policemen. Through another door and down another aisle marched Capt. Willard Malone, also leading six officers.

The orchestra continued playing, but Howard stopped singing. The girls stared. The officers strode onto the stage. Scanlon announced dramatically that the show was over. The curtain descended.

While the customers left, getting their money back on the way, the actors, manager and girls were taken through the stage entrance to four patrol wagons. The girls protested as they went, scolding the officers for taking jobs away from them.

"I am at a loss to understand this raid," Carroll told the United Press.

"Unless," he added, "it was because of that scene in the Chicago cabaret where a cop comes in, pays no attention to a dead man on the floor, and arrests one of the customers for parking his car too near a fire plug."

After the chorus girls had arranged themselves around the bench, Judge McCarthy decided to continue the case until next Thursday at 2 P. M.

"That won't get the girls up too early," he said.

The judge appointed Peyton Tuohy as "amicus curiae" or friend of the court to assemble a jury of 12 men, attend the matinee of the "Sketch Book" this afternoon and report back whether they thought it indecent. Tuohy said he would be "very glad to do this."

Practically everyone in the court room volunteered for "jury" duty but Tuohy said he would select the members later.

J. J. McDermott, one of the attorneys for the show, suggested that if "it hadn't been for Mr. Volstead," the critics could get together before and after the show "at some convenient place" and "really discuss the merits of the show."

"Never heard of Mr. Volstead," Judge McCarthy said.

"The closest I ever came was Mr. Wickersham."

Judge McCarthy warned police not to molest the show this afternoon upon pain of contempt charges. The police said they wouldn't but indicated many of them would attend.

SKATING IMPROVES

Temperature Drop Aids in Maintaining Almost Ideal Rink Conditions

Weather conditions which have prevailed during the past week have made it possible to maintain the ice at the municipal skating rink in a highly satisfactory condition. Crowds have increased in numbers and on Sunday a very large group of skaters is anticipated. Skaters will find the ice in better condition than ever and the conveniences of the warming house will be available as usual.

It is reported that other cities in the state have closed down their rinks due to unseasonable weather. Although the ice at the local rink suffered as a result of high temperatures, it was brought back into shape with the advent of a drop in thermometer readings. It is hoped a large number will take advantage of the present ideal skating weather.

"JONAH AND THE WHALE"

Evangelist Zelma Argue Draws Large Crowds to Full Gospel Assembly

(Contributed)

The church building was packed again last night at the Full Gospel Assembly where Evangelist Zelma Argue spoke on "Jonah and the Whale." She used old testament scripture and new testament scripture and latter day happenings to prove the existence of Jonah; the fact that Christ believed that Jonah was three days and nights within the Whale; (Matt 12:40) and the fact that men have been swallowed by Whales in these latter days and lived to tell the story. (As James Bartley 1891—recorded in Literary Digest).

There will be no meeting tonight. Two meetings Sunday at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night of next week.

50,000 GARMENTS IS 1931 FACTORY GOAL

S. R. Hickerson, President, Views Year Hopefully; Has Successful Selling Tour

PAST YEAR ENCOURAGING

Hickerson Company to Keep 40 Busy Throughout Year as Outlook Appears

Encouraged by the fact that 1930, generally classed among years of depression, little affected the company's output of garments, S. R. Hickerson, president of Hickerson and Co., South Sixth street, Brainerd, garment manufacturer, looked forward optimistically today to reaching a 50,000 output of garments this year.

Future successful operation of the factory in 1931 was practically assured by Mr. Hickerson following his return from a fruitful selling trip east, including Ogdensburg, Pittsburg, New York City, N. Y., Bangor, Maine, Baltimore, Cleveland, Boston, Toledo, Washington, Chicago and Milwaukee.

"Conditions look bright for 1931. We are working a capacity crew of 40 and expect to be busy throughout the entire year," Mr. Hickerson said.

During 1930 between 30,000 and 40,000 garments were manufactured. Forty people were employed throughout the year with the exception of two weeks in December when the factory was closed for repairs and remodeling.

The company paid its usual six percent dividend on preferred stock.

The following officers:

President—S. R. Hickerson.

Vice President—Con O'Brien.

Secretary-Treasurer—R. R. Gould.

Board of Directors—S. R. Hickerson, Con O'Brien, R. R. Gould, Walter P. Tyrholm, W. H. Cleary.

EARL CARROLL'S SHOW "SKETCH BOOK" IS RAIDED

IN ONE SCENE GIRL AND THREE MEN STOOD IN A BATH TUB

MANAGER, BROTHER OF EARL, 2 COMEDIANS, 28 CHORUS GIRLS ARRESTED

Chicago, Feb. 14.—(UP)—Earl Carroll's musical comedy "Sketch Book," in one scene of which a girl and three men stood in a bath tub and threw water at each other, was raided and stopped last night by police.

The manager, James Carroll, brother of Earl, two comedians and 28 chorus girls were arrested. They were taken in patrol wagons to a police station and charged with taking part in an obscene performance.

Bonds of $1,000 each were set by Judge Francis Borelli, who released the performers on their own recognizance. The last one filed past the desk sergeant early today and left for her hotel.

The raid was conducted by Deputy Commissioner John Alcock, whose investigator, Henry Melvin, had seen the show, which opened three weeks ago.

Carroll and others connected with the show declared the raid was not justified and believed it was due partly to scenes ridiculing the Chicago police department.

The twelfth scene of act one was being staged when the police appeared. Don Howard, a star, was in the center of the stage, crooning "Song of the Moonbeams." He was surrounded by scantily clad girls.

Scanlon marched down an aisle, followed by six uniformed policemen. Through another door and down another aisle marched Capt. Willard Malone, also leading six officers.

The orchestra continued playing, but Howard stopped singing. The girls stared. The officers strode onto the stage. Scanlon announced dramatically that the show was over. The curtain descended.

While the customers left, getting their money back on the way, the actors, manager and girls were taken through the stage entrance to four patrol wagons. The girls protested as they went, scolding the officers for taking jobs away from them.

"I am at a loss to understand this raid," Carroll told the United Press. "Unless," he added, "it was because of that scene in the Chicago cabaret where a cop comes in, pays no attention to a dead man on the floor, and arrests one of the customers for parking his car too near a fire plug."

After the chorus girls had arranged themselves around the bench, Judge McCarthy decided to continue the case until next Thursday at 2 P. M.

"That won't get the girls up too early," he said.

The judge appointed Peyton Tuohy as "amicus curae" or friend of the court to assemble a jury of 12 men, attend the matinee of the "Sketch Book" this afternoon and report back whether they thought it indecent. Tuohy said he would be "very glad to do this."

Practically everyone in the court room volunteered for "jury" duty but Tuohy said he would select the members later.

J. J. McDermott, one of the attorneys for the show, suggested that if "it hadn't been for Mr. Volstead," the critics could get together before and after the show "at some convenient place" and "really discuss the merits of the show."

"Never heard of Mr. Volstead," Judge McCarthy said.

"The closest I ever came was Mr. Wickersham."

Judge McCarthy warned police not to molest the show this afternoon upon pain of contempt charges. The police said they wouldn't but indicated many of them would attend.

SKATING IMPROVES

Temperature Drop Aids in Maintaining Almost Ideal Rink Conditions

Weather conditions which have prevailed during the past week have made it possible to maintain the ice at the municipal skating rink in a highly satisfactory condition. Crowds have increased in numbers and on Sunday a very large group of skaters is anticipated. Skaters will find the ice in better condition than ever and the conveniences of the warming house will be available as usual.

It is reported that other cities in the state have closed down their rinks due to unseasonable weather. Although the ice at the local rink suffered as a result of high temperatures, it was brought back into shape with the advent of a drop in thermometer readings. It is hoped a large number will take advantage of the present ideal skating weather.

"JONAH AND THE WHALE"

Evangelist Zelma Argue Draws Large Crowds to Full Gospel Assembly

(Contributed)
The church building was packed again last night at the Full Gospel Assembly where Evangelist Zelma Argue spoke on "Jonah and the Whale." She used old testament scripture and new testament scripture and latter day happenings to prove the existence of Jonah; the fact that Christ believed that Jonah was three days and nights within the Whale; (Matt 12:40) and the fact that men have been swallowed by Whales in these latter days and lived to tell the story. (As James Bartley 1891—recorded in Literary Digest).
There will be no meeting tonight. Two meetings Sunday at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night of next week.

VINCE DUNDEE IN SECOND WIN OVER LEN HARVEY

TWO MEET IN A 12 ROUND ENGAGEMENT AT NEW YORK

DECISION FOR DUNDEE GREETED WITH BURST OF CAT-CALLING

By L. S. CAMERON (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 14.—(U.P.)—One of those strange ring decisions was in the books today with Vince Dundee of Baltimore credited with a second victory over Len Harvey, claimant of the British middleweight championship.

Dundee and Harvey met in a 12-round return engagement last night. Dundee has been given the decision in their first meeting of 12 rounds. The officials might well have scored that one as a draw although plenty of capable boxing writers believed Harvey won.

The second bout, however, in the opinion of this writer and most others, was not even close. The United Press score sheet gave seven rounds to Harvey, three to Dundee and two were scored as even. One judge named Harvey as the winner, the other judge and the referee voted for Dundee.

The decision was greeted with a strident and extended outburst of cat-calling.

Dundee weighed 159 and Harvey 155. Harvey was away to a fast start. In the fifth round he had Dundee hanging on the ropes, all but out.

No knockouts were scored although Harvey once slipped and fell backwards.

Harvey had much the best of the distance fighting and at least held his own at close range. He scored repeatedly with powerful rights to the head.

Dundee scored most of his points in infighting. He often speared Harvey with quick, short upward right jabs to the chin.

Neither boxer was marked although Harvey bled intermittently at the nose.

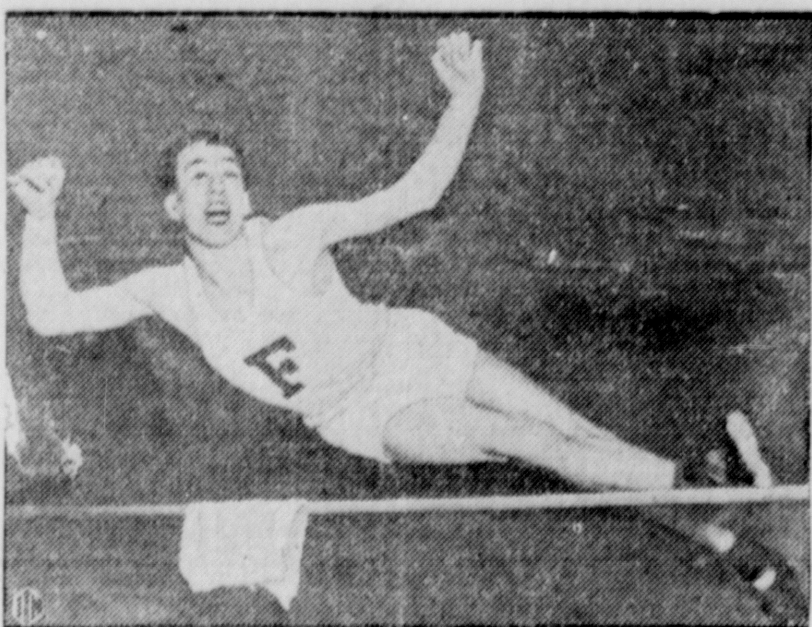

Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight who registered here from Chicago, won a decision over Solly Schwartz, red headed English wallower in the ten round semi-final bout. Herrera weighed 136½, Schwartz 139½.

Herrera, who fought to draw in his recent Garden debut with Sammy Dorfman, veteran, New York trial horse, was given a great hand for his showing against the hard hitting Briton. He feathered his way to victory, dancing in and out and all around Schwartz. Schwartz's blows were much more powerful than those of Herrera but Tony hit twice as often. Herrera has a fine fighting heart and is one of the speediest of the current batch of lightweight.

Vincent Sireci, 149, New York, knocked out Madison Dix, 149½, San Francisco in the sixth of a scheduled 10 round bout.

Dix was knocked out cold. He had not regained full consciousness when he was taken from the ring, fully three minutes after the right hand smash to the chin which knocked him out was delivered.

Youth's Leap to Fame

By his spectacular leap over a bar 6 feet 7 inches off the floor of Madison Square Garden, New York, George Spitz, 18-year-old N. Y. U. freshman entered the lists as the logical recipient of another honor in addition to a world record. The record-breaking jump puts him in line to receive the Rodman Wanamaker international trophy annually awarded to the outstanding athlete of the meet. The young collegiate is shown above going over the bar to victory.

Poor Little Golf-Ball

The Babe intends to shoot 36 holes daily as preliminary hardening exercise until Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks calls for the opening of spring training.

My Greatest Thrill in Sport

By CHARLIE WHITE
Lightweight Boxer

On May 26, 1914, I crawled under the ropes at Milwaukee for ten rounds of action against Willie Ritchie, who at that time was lightweight champ of the world. The articles called for no-decision, thus making a knockout essential for the title to change hands. Previous to this, though my efforts had been directed against numerous good scrappers, I had never squared off with a champion.

Odds of 6 to 1 were being offered that Ritchie would triumph. Few conceded me much of a chance. Many fight fans had journeyed up from Chicago, however, and these, I knew, were mostly my friends and would be rooting for me to win, regardless of all predictions. After the announcer had roared out that Champ Ritchie sat in one corner and Contender White in another, and Trainer Art Winch had encouraged me with a few strong words, the gong rang and hostilities began. We pawed around a bit, then Ritchie led with a left. I countered and soon we were whaling away. Suddenly my left hook crashed solidly into the champ, and he stepped back as though hurt.

This seemed to me a ruse, so I rushed in and shot several well-aimed rights and lefts to his head and body. Now, Ritchie reeled toward the ropes, and I knew he was really hurt.

I rushed again, but the champ blocked and plunged desperately into a clinch.

The crowd went wild. Hats, newspapers and various other commodities were flying through space. Above all else, I was vaguely aware of some thousand voices hollering for a K. O. and a new lightweight king.

Ritchie, however, stalled out the round, then came back stronger in the next.

Again, during the eighth round, I had the champ in bad shape, even holding on to the ropes to stay up, but I was too tired myself to crash over a finishing wallop.

When the final gong rang I realized that victory was mine, and my whole body seemed to vibrate with joy. The title had not changed hands, it is true; still, I had defeated the titleholder. Theoretically, at least, Charlie White was a world's champion.

HARRIS, DETROIT, AFTER MORE PUNCH, BETTER HITTING

DETROIT IN PAST HAD POWER, BUT WAS SHY ON THE PITCHING END

HURLING IMPROVED SOME LAST YEAR, BUT BATTING STRENGTH WAS DECREASED

This is the fifth of a series of articles detailing the efforts of American League clubs to strengthen in preparation for the 1931 season. Monday—St. Louis.

New York, Feb. 14.—Like several other American League managers, Stanley Harris of Detroit is seeking more punch and better pitching. Detroit, until last season, always had the power but was shy on pitching. The pitching was somewhat improved in 1930 but the batting strength was decreased.

Apparently, Harris is of the opinion his hurling staff will deliver this year. The Detroit roster, as released by Henry F. Edwards, Service Bureau manager of the American League, indicates Harris has stood pat as outside of a few recalls, only one new thrower has been added. The newcomer is Narrows of Beaumont, and he may need further minor league experience.

Three veterans, Uhle, Hoyt and Whitehill, will form the nucleus of the mound corps and there is no reason to expect that any one of the three will fail to deliver. Of last year's crop of rookies, Hogsett, Myatt, Cantrell and Bridges should show considerable improvement and be of real assistance.

A wise move has been made in the purchase of Catcher Grabowski, who caught for Chicago and New York for several seasons. The Tigers have not been any too well equipped behind the bat since the release of Johnny Bassler several years ago and Grabowski ought to steady the young pitchers. In Desautels, Detroit has a smart youngster but a weak hitter.

The infield most probably will be composed of Alexandre, Gerringer, Akers and McManus. Mark Koenig, who finished the 1930 season as a pitcher, may be given another crack at short while Owen, former star shortstop for Seattle, is likely to draw one of the utility berths with Hollee, bought from Beaumont, understudying Gehring at second.

Batting strength may have been added in the purchases of Eckhardt and Shiver from Beaumont, the Walker brothers from Evansville and Dolack from Wheeling, all outfielders. At least three of these rookies will give Roy Johnson, John Stone and Elias Funk spirited competition for the outfield berths.

Two famous veterans, Catcher Wally Schang and Third Baseman Joe Dugan are to make the training trip with the Tigers. If they will be signed.

On the whole, Detroit appears to be ten or fifteen per cent stronger than in 1930. The factors in this improvement are the acquisition of Catcher Grabowski, the expected development of three of last year's pitching rookies and added hitting power to the outfield.

STRANGE SPORTS OF OTHER LANDS

Jai Alai, Cuba's Popular Pastime, Is the Fastest Game in World.

Washington.—"Foreign visitors who are amazed at Tom Thumb golf and backgammon may come from lands which have pastimes equally strange and puzzling to the average American," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Cubans, for instance, have their high-speed jai alai (pronounced high-ah-lee). If any sport has a right to the title 'fastest in the world' this whirlwind Spanish game is in the forefront.

"Jai alai is played on a long indoor court with one side wall and two end walls. The players occupy the court space in common, batting the ball against the wall until a player on one side fails to return it, when the opposing team scores a point. Instead of rackets the players use basket-woven bats, crescent-shaped, with one end laced to the hand.

"A team of two players must protect an area of 7,500 square feet. If the rebound is close to the wall of the court the cesta, or crescent-shaped bat, must be manipulated with the utmost agility and skill. Cuban crowds go into a frenzy watching its thrills.

Another Scotch Game.

"When Scotland's golf greens and fairways are covered with ice and snow a popular sport is curling, a game in which players glide large, rounded stones down a smooth stretch of ice toward a mark called a tee. Four players, each with two stones, form a side. If the curler cannot reach the tee he tries to leave his stone so as to block an opposing player. Like quito, the players shot nearest to the tee scores a point.

"In the Philippine islands the Bontoc Igorots have a remarkable pastime which consists in slapping the thigh of an opponent with the flat of the hand. One man sits on a bench with the thigh exposed, and his opponent slaps him with all the strength he can muster.

"After the stroke, judges examine the thigh of the man who has been hit, and if the blow has been sufficiently hard to cause the blood to show beneath the skin, the striker has won the game, but if not, then the opponents change places. The first contestant who causes the blood to show beneath the other's skin is declared the winner.

"Every ocean traveler knows shuffleboard, also called shovelboard. Round wooden disks are propelled by long, notched sticks toward a numbered checkerboard about twenty-five feet away. The game is to land the disks in the squares with the highest numbers, and to keep them from stopping in other squares which subtract from the score.

Hunting on Foot.
"Hunting has long been associated with the English, but one form of their hunting is very little known outside of England. This is hawking, or following the hare on foot with beagles, a dwarf hunting dog. Unlike the fox or the stag, the hare is very short-winded. It soon outdistances both hunters and hounds, but, as it quickly tires, they may catch it if they have not been side-tracked on false trails. The hare, however, really has a sporting chance, because its scent is the faintest of all game, and it grows steadily weaker as the hare nears the end of its strength.

"Miniature golf may not be new to these shores. Early chroniclers tell of New Amsterdam Dutch burghers playing 'kolf' on small courses near taverns. After a round or two the 'kolfers' retired to the tavern for a bowl of punch, lingering over it in typical 'nineteenth hole' fashion until the room was filled with the aroma of their long clay pipes.

Backgammon, in one form or another, has been traced to the Romans, the pre-Columbian Mexicans, and the Burmanese. Even Plato alludes to a game in which dice were thrown and men were placed after due deliberation."

VINCE DUNDEE IN SECOND WIN OVER LEN HARVEY

TWO MEET IN A 12 ROUND ENGAGEMENT AT NEW YORK

DECISION FOR DUNDEE GREETED WITH BURST OF CAT-CALLING

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 14.—(UP)—One of those strange ring decisions was in the books today with Vince Dundee of Baltimore credited with a second victory over Len Harvey, claimant of the British middleweight championship.

Dundee and Harvey met in a 12-round return engagement last night. Dundee has been given the decision in their first meeting of 12 rounds. The officials might well have scored that one as a draw although plenty of capable boxing writers believed Harvey won.

The second bout, however, in the opinion of this writer and most others, was not even close. The United Press score sheet gave seven rounds to Harvey, three to Dundee and two were scored as even. One judge named Harvey as the winner, the other judge and the referee voted for Dundee.

The decision was greeted with a strident and extended outburst of cat-calling.

Dundee weighed 159 and Harvey 155. Harvey was away to a fast start. In the fifth round he had Dundee hanging on the ropes, all but out.

No knockouts were scored although Harvey once slipped and fell backward.

Harvey had much the best of the distance fighting and at least held his own at close range. He scored repeatedly with powerful rights to the head.

Dundee scored most of his points in infighting. He often speared Harvey with quick, short upward right jabs to the chin.

Neither boxer was marked although Harvey bled intermittently at the nose.

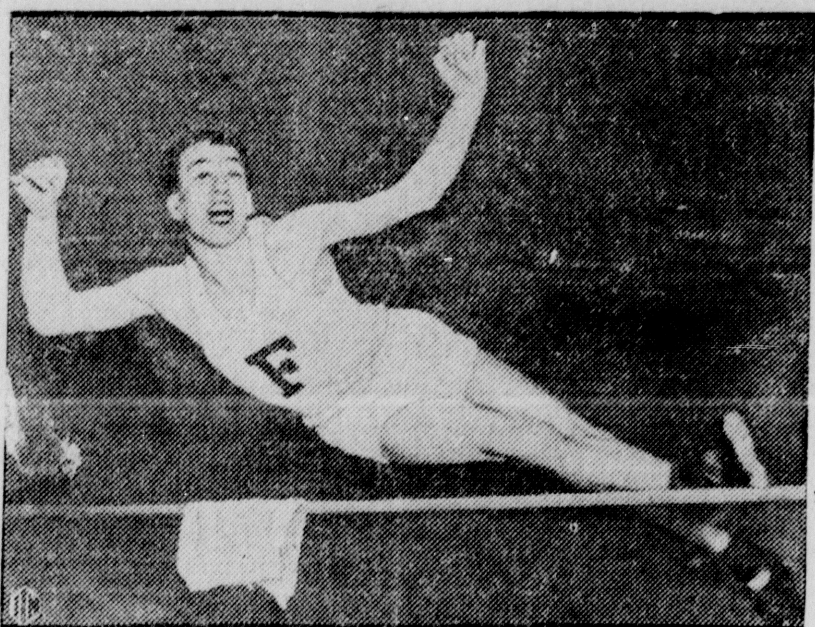

Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight who registered here from Chicago, won a decision over Solly Schwartz, red-headed English wallpinner in the ten round semi-final bout. Herrera weighed 136½, Schwartz 139½.

Herrera, who fought to a draw in his recent Garden debut with Sammy Dorfman, veteran New York trial horse, was given a great hand for his showing against the hard hitting Briton. He feathered his way to victory, dancing in and out and all around Schwartz. Schwartz's blows were much more powerful than those of Herrera but Tony hit twice as often. Herrera has a fine fighting heart and is one of the speediest of the current batch of lightweights.

Vincent Sireci, 149, New York, knocked out Madison Dix, 149½, San Francisco in the sixth of a scheduled 10 round bout.

Dix was knocked out cold. He had not regained full consciousness when he was taken from the ring, fully three minutes after the right hand smash to the chin which knocked him out was delivered.

Youth's Leap to Fame

By his spectacular leap over a bar 6 feet 7 inches off the floor of Madison Square Garden, New York, George Spitz, 18-year-old N. Y. U. freshman entered the lists as the logical recipient of another honor in addition to a world record. The record-breaking jump puts him in line to receive the Rodman Wanamaker international trophy annually awarded to the outstanding athletes of the meet. The young collegiate is shown above going over the bar to victory.

Poor Little Golf-Ball

Babe Ruth, fence-buster of the New York Yankees, about to sock the little pill down the fairway on his first day of golf at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Babe intends to shoot 36 holes daily as preliminary hardening exercise until Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks calls for the opening of spring training.

My Greatest Thrill in Sport

By CHARLIE WHITE
Lightweight Boxer

On May 20, 1914, I crawled under the ropes at Milwaukee for ten rounds of action against Willie Ritchie, who at that time was lightweight champ of the world. The articles called for no-decision, thus making a knockout essential for the title to change hands. Previous to this, though my efforts had been directed against numerous good scrap-pers, I had never squared off with a champion.

Odds of 6 to 1 were being offered that Ritchie would triumph. Few conceded me much of a chance.

Many fight fans had journeyed up from Chicago, however, and these, I knew, were mostly my friends and would be rooting for me to win, regardless of all predictions.

After the announcer had roared out that Champ Ritchie sat in one corner and Contender White in another, and Trainer Art Winch had encouraged me with a few strong words, the gong rang and hostilities began.

We paced around a bit, then Ritchie led with a left. I countered and soon we were whaling away. Suddenly my left hook crashed solidly into the champ, and he stepped back as though hurt.

This seemed to me a ruse, so I rushed in and shot several well-aimed rights and lefts to his head and body. Now, Ritchie reeled toward the ropes, and I knew he was really hurt.

I rushed again, but the champ blocked and plunged desperately into a clinch.

The crowd went wild. Hats, newspapers and various other commodities were flying through space. Above all else, I was vaguely aware of some thousand voices hollering for a K. O. and a new lightweight king.

Ritchie, however, stalled out the round, then came back stronger in the next.

Again, during the eighth round, I had the champ in bad shape, even holding on to the ropes to stay up, but I was too tired myself to crash over a finishing wallop.

When the final gong rang I realized that victory was mine, and my whole body seemed to vibrate with joy. The title had not changed hands, it is true; still, I had defeated the titleholder. Theoretically, at least, Charlie White was a world champion.

HARRIS, DETROIT, AFTER MORE PUNCH, BETTER HITTING

DETROIT IN PAST HAD POWER, BUT WAS SHY ON THE PITCHING END

HURLING IMPROVED SOME LAST YEAR, BUT BATTING STRENGTH WAS DECREASED

* This is the fifth of a series of articles detailing the efforts of American League clubs to strengthen in preparation for the 1931 season. Monday—St. Louis.

New York, Feb. 14.—Like several other American League managers, Stanley Harris of Detroit is seeking more punch and better pitching. Detroit, until last season, always had the power but was shy on pitching. The pitching was somewhat improved in 1930 but the batting strength was decreased.

Apparently, Harris is of the opinion his hurling staff will deliver this year. The Detroit roster as released by Henry F. Edwards, Service Bureau manager of the American League, indicates Harris has stood pat as outside of a few recalls only one new thrower has been added. The newcomer is Narrow of Beaumont, and he may need further minor league experience.

Three veterans, Uhle, Hoyt and Whitehill, will form the nucleus of the mound corps and there is no reason to expect that any one of the three will fail to deliver. Of last year's crop of rookies, Hogsett, Myatt, Cantrell and Bridges should show considerable improvement and be of real assistance.

A wise move has been made in the purchase of Catcher Grabowski, who caught for Chicago and New York for several seasons. The Tigers have not been any too well equipped behind the bat since the release of Johnny Bassler several years ago and Grabowski ought to steady the young pitchers. In Desautels, Detroit has a smart youngster but a weak hitter.

The infield most probably will be composed of Alexandre, Geringer, Akers and McManus. Mark Koenig, who finished the 1930 season as a pitcher, may be given another crack at short while Owen, former star shortstop for Seattle, is likely to draw one of the utility berths with Hollee, bought from Beaumont, understudying Gehring at second.

Batting strength may have been added in the purchases of Eckhardt and Shiver from Beaumont, the Walker brothers from Evansville and Doljack from Wheeling, all outfielders. At least three of these rookies will give Roy Johnson, John Stone and Elias Funk spirited competition for the outfield berths.

Two famous veterans, Catcher Wally Schang and Third Baseman Johnny Dugan are to make the training trip with the Tigers, if they will be signed.

On the whole, Detroit appears to be ten or fifteen per cent stronger than in 1930. The factors in this improvement are the acquisition of Catcher Grabowski, the expected development of three of last year's pitching rookies and added hitting power to the outfield.
